

Personal Information Protection Policy of Asia CORD

1.Aim of Protection of Personal Information

The aim of this policy is the protection and effective use of the personal information of related persons (“related persons” hereinafter) of Asia CORD (“this Society” hereinafter)

2.Obtaining Personal Information

The aim of this policy is the protection and effective use of the personal information of members of the Japanese Society for Regenerative Medicine (“this Society” hereinafter) and non-members (“related persons” hereinafter) involved in the activities of this Society.

3.Use of Personal Information

Personal information obtained by this Society is managed appropriately and is not handled (used, provided, etc.) beyond the scope necessary for the realization of the designated objective of its use.

4.Appropriate Management of Personal Information

To ensure the accuracy and safety of personal information, this Society implements security measures and other safety measures and prevents improper access to personal information and the leakage, loss or damage of personal information. When improvements are required, such as in the event of market security incidents or requests from related persons, this Society will make the improvement promptly and take preventive measures.

5.Compliance

This Society complies with all laws and ordinances, national guidelines, and other standards related to personal information. It also ensures that its management of personal information is always in conformity with these regulations, national guidelines, and other standards.

6.Revision of Personal Information Protection Policy

Revisions of this policy are resolved by the chairperson and office members of this Society. The revised Personal Information Protection Policy is promptly published.

7.Response to Complaints and Inquiries

This Society has set up an appropriate structure for responding to complaints or inquiries regarding personal information.

If you have any inquiries about protection of personal information, please contact AsiaCORD office.
